Driving Our Democracy Forward with Conversations and Community

Reflecting on Experiences from the Road to Mar-a-Lago

BY SISTER SIMONE CAMPBELL

As we traveled more than 5,000 miles on the 2018 Nuns on the Bus trip, I was struck by the fact that at each of our 13 lobby visits (or attempted visits) constituents told us their member of Congress would not meet with them. The most extreme was now-former Representative Peter Roskam (IL-06) whose office was in a private airport building in West Chicago, Illinois. The building is secured by the Transportation Safety Administration (TSA) and no one could enter the building unless they had been screened by TSA. Additionally, groups could not hold rallies outside the building because it was a “safety issue.” So, this embattled Congressman was protected by TSA while his constituents and our bus had to hold our rally two blocks away from the office. I was stunned! This is not democracy!

This experience fueled my New Year’s resolution to make democracy work. There are many new members of Congress and we need to make sure that they have opportunities to meet and listen to their constituents. Members need to hear the stories of the people in their district in order to create effective responses to the challenges that they face.

When the bus stopped in Columbia, South Carolina and we held a roundtable conversation with local service organizations, Representative Jim Clyburn (SC-06) joined us for the roundtable and we learned of the varied needs of the people in his district. In a freewheeling discussion, we learned many things, including:

- Columbia has the sixth highest eviction rate in the nation and the state of South Carolina needs more than 4,000 new units of affordable housing, but none are being built.
- Agriculture and tourism are the two largest industries in South Carolina. Both industries are highly dependent on immigrants to flourish, yet exploitation and hostility toward immigrants is all too common. This is making it difficult for both industries to find employees.

- Latino men are attacked frequently. Undocumented people are unable to use banks in South Carolina, so they must carry cash for their transactions. This makes them lucrative targets for robbery. The increase in assault is terrifying the undocumented community, but they are afraid to report these crimes for fear of being deported.
- There is basically no effective public transit for low-wage workers in South Carolina. Transportation is one of the biggest challenges that workers face.

Towards the end of the conversation, one of the participants noted that each of the agencies gathered represented a good “charity” serving a particular need. But, in the conversation they saw how much their issues were complex and interrelated. She said the organizations need to keep working on their own individual issue, but also think systemically about how to improve the structures of society.

By sharing our stories we discover commonality. In these shared conversations, we can see new levels of intersection and find more effective solutions. This is what we are seeking to do at NETWORK. This year, we are continuing our efforts to listen to people around our nation and learn from their experience. We need to understand the lived realities of different communities in our nation if we are going to advocate for policies for the 100%. This is our goal for 2019.

As we continue in our work for justice, let us ground our advocacy in the lived reality of our communities. Let us exercise holy curiosity as we meet people with different perspectives and experiences. This effort to understand will be the way to discovering community that can make a “more perfect union.” ☀️

Finding Inspiration and Sharing Hope for the New Congress

A Conversation with Representative Ayanna Pressley

Before Congresswoman Ayanna Pressley (MA-07) was sworn into the 116th Congress, we spoke with her about her hopes and expectations for the upcoming session. We look forward to the leadership Representative Pressley and other new members of Congress bring to Capitol Hill to advance policies that mend the gaps in our nation.

CONNECTION: What are you looking forward to working on when the new Congress begins?

REPRESENTATIVE PRESSLEY: I intend to be an activist leader on all issues of consequence to the people I represent. People don't live in checked boxes, they live in intersectionality, and are impacted by many different policies. During my campaign, I developed—in partnership with community—a wide ranging Equity Agenda, focused on addressing the persistent disparities in Massachusetts' 7th District. One of the issues I called out was the epidemic of gun violence and trauma—I intend to make that a priority, and have already secured commitments from Democratic leadership to bring common sense gun control to the floor of the House, but I will also be a leader on issues like healthcare, environmental justice, and transportation equity—all of which are critical to my constituents.

CONNECTION: How does your faith inspire your work as an elected official?

REP. PRESSLEY: I'm often asked about my political education, and while people tend to focus on the time I spent working for Congressman Joseph P. Kennedy II and Senator John Kerry, the truth is that the values that have informed my work as an elected official first took root as a child, when I attended Rain or Shine Baptist Church in Chicago, where my grandfather, Rev. James Echols, was the pastor. The values of inclusive leadership, empathy, and compassion, which are a through-line of my career in elected office, were first introduced to me in the Church, and I continue to carry them with me today as a woman of abiding faith.

CONNECTION: How have you seen policies you've promoted in the past positively affect your constituents and our nation?

REP. PRESSLEY: One story that I believe is emblematic: when I ran for the Boston City Council, I ran on a platform of elevating the voices of women and girls. Sitting in my first school budget hearing after I was elected, I asked every department head who came before us how their policies they were proposing would impact girls—their answers were sparse at best. Now, eight years later, those department heads come to our budget hearings with binders full of information on how their policies will affect female students, about teen pregnancy, and push-out, and the school to prison pipeline. This progress only happened because someone asked the question. We must continue to ask the difficult questions that will lead to real progress.

CONNECTION: When times are difficult, what keeps you motivated to continue working for the common good?

REP. PRESSLEY: I often begin my days with a verse from a book called The President's Devotionals, by Joshua DuBois, which helps motivate me during more challenging times. One of my favorite affirmations from this book is entitled “a Gentle Battle.” To paraphrase, it says that each morning we awake to a gentle battle. Of all the negotiations and decisions of our day, this gentle battle is the most important. Will we go in the direction of worry, weariness, and indifference—or in the direction of joy, of peace, of equality and justice? Even through the most difficult times, I remain committed to the latter.

CONNECTION: Do you have any advice for advocates inspired by their faith to engage in politics?

REP. PRESSLEY: I would say, simply, “do it”—our Democracy needs your voices. For our government to be truly representative, we need a diversity of passionate, committed voices around the table. If we want to see values like compassion, dignity, and social justice reflected in our public policy, then we need to invest the sweat equity necessary to elect activist leaders and hold them accountable. Change can't wait, but it also won't happen on its own; we need to work to create it.

Presidential Failures to Mend the Gaps

Over the course of 2018, the Trump administration set numerous policies into motion that are sure to harm vulnerable communities and exacerbate the gaps in our society. Our Spirit-filled network took action to denounce the harmful actions taken by the Trump administration and prevent them from going into effect. By writing and submitting comments on proposed rules in the federal register, organizing and attending protests, and raising awareness of these issues, you acted in solidarity with the individuals and families impacted by these unjust decisions.

Healthcare

In January 2018, the Trump administration announced that the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid (CMS) would begin approving states' requests to impose burdensome Medicaid Work Requirements. Since then, work requirements have been approved in five states, and are pending in ten more states. These work requirements target already vulnerable low-income adults, many of whom are already working or doing their best to secure steady work that pays sufficient wages.

Nutrition

The Agriculture Department released a proposed rule to enforce stricter SNAP (Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program) Work Requirements right at the end 2018. This happened just after Congress had finally reached agreement after months of bipartisan negotiations, resulting in a majority of Congress voting to not include these restrictive work requirements in the Farm Bill. This unilateral action from the administration is clear rejection of Congress's hard-won, bipartisan agreement.

Census

President Trump's Secretary of Commerce Wilbur Ross announced they would be adding a Citizenship Question to the 2020 Census just as it nears the final stages of preparation. The addition of a citizenship question is likely to further depress Census responses from communities of color (which are already undercounted), due to fear of immigration enforcement in the current climate. Additionally, concerning information about persuasion from the White House and undisclosed communication with the Department of Justice encouraging Secretary Ross to add the citizenship question, has become public.

Immigration

In September, the Trump administration released a proposed regulation that the advocacy community refers to as the "Flores Rule." This new regulation would dismantle the current "Flores" standards, now allowing the indefinite detention of immigrant children and families, including asylum seekers. In addition to being morally reprehensible, this proposal rejects proven alternatives to mass detention, which are more humane and effective. This proposed rule would allow the federal government to set its own standards for holding families and children in detention and undermine independent oversight of conditions; it also reduces vulnerable families' access to due process and humanitarian protections.

The Trump administration's proposed "Public Charge Rule," published in October, would make it more difficult for immigrants to apply for and receive legal immigration status in the United States. This proposed rule seeks to drastically redefine what it means to be a "public charge" in the immigration system. This would increase the probability that legal immigration applications would be denied based on factors such as age, health, family status, financial status, education, skills, and employment history and would hurt and potentially separate families. Even the threat of this rule is already causing parents to choose between needed public assistance to keep their families housed, fed, and healthy or making their family vulnerable to separation.

Throughout the year, the Trump administration has threatened immigrants with legal status through two programs. Temporary Protected Status (TPS) is a legal immigration status for nationals of a country experiencing ongoing armed conflict, environmental disaster, or another extraordinary and temporary condition. Deferred Enforced Departure (DED) allows foreign nationals to be protected from deportation and have the opportunity to work. Currently, the Trump administration is in the process of ending protections for TPS or DED holders from 11 countries.

Judicial

The Senate approved 66 of President Trump's Judicial Appointments in 2018, including Supreme Court Justice Brett Kavanaugh. This is a significant number of appointments and these confirmations will have a strong impact on the makeup of our judicial system. ☀️

Chaos and Cooperation in Congress

By Laura Peralta-Schulte, NETWORK Senior Government Relations Advocate

2018 saw the second session of the Republican led 115th Congress, the second year of the Trump administration, and another year of persistent challenges to mending the gaps in our country. As was the case in 2017, the Trump administration continued to cut human needs programs, relentlessly attack immigrant and refugee communities, and double down on tax breaks for the wealthy. The latest Presidential tweet or scandal seemed to dominate news headlines in 2018, often to the detriment of substantive national policy issues. Some Congressional action took place within this context, but much of our legislative success was noticeably absent from news coverage.

There is some good news to report this year: in the Senate, there was true bipartisan partnership on a number of our key legislative priorities. In contrast to 2017, Republicans in both chambers decided not to use budget reconciliation to allow the Senate to pass a bill on a simple majority vote, so cooperation was essential. Some bipartisan relationships formed quickly to tackle emergencies like the opioid crisis, others had been going on for years and finally resulted in steps toward meaningful change on criminal justice reform. In instances such as the Farm Bill and many appropriations bills, the elected officials who lead key committees agreed to take the most controversial proposals off the table in order to pass needed legislation. We are grateful for this measured leadership and believe it should be the model for how Congress works.

House Republicans took a different approach to their work this year. The Republican caucus was deeply fractured between moderate Republicans and tea party conservatives. Under Speaker Paul Ryan, Republican leadership promised that any bill passed in the House must be supported by a majority of Republicans. As a result, their legislation largely reflected conservative tea party priorities. Moderate House members supported these bills, often recognizing that the worst proposals would be removed by the Senate. They believed this political posturing would satisfy their voters.

These member of Congress were wrong. They failed to understand how their votes would impact their political support at home. At the end of the day, many of these elected officials suffered defeat in the midterm elections because of their support for controversial bills on issues such as healthcare and taxes. The 2018 election showed that voters want their elected officials to protect healthcare, Social Security, and other federal programs and ensure that the wealthy are paying their fair share of taxes to support these programs.

Congressional action on immigration in 2018 deserves its own analysis. As you will see in our voting record, there were significant votes on different immigration policies during 2018, but the reality is that Congress failed to take any meaningful steps to fix the broken immigration system or to protect immigrants living in the United States. Much of the Congressional action stemmed from the crisis created by the Trump administration's decision to end DACA in September 2017. Rather than passing the Dream Act to protect DACA recipients from deportation and provide them with a pathway to citizenship, Republicans aligned themselves with the Trump administration to push significant cuts to the legal immigration system and other harsh measures to harm immigrant families. The result has been bittersweet: immigration advocates were able to convince Congress to reject these harmful proposals, but the lives of DACA recipients and their families remain at risk. At the end of a difficult year, there is much that we wish would have turned out differently, but we remain hopeful for another opportunity to work for justice in 2019 with the 116th Congress. ☀️

SENATE VOTES

1 Uniting and Securing America Act Vote #33 (H.R.4796)

NETWORK supported this bipartisan bill, which would have provided Dreamers with a pathway to citizenship and authorized funding for data-driven border technology in consultation with border communities. This bill upheld the human dignity of those affected by the Trump administration's termination of DACA with an effective bipartisan, bicameral solution.

Failed 47-52, February 15, 2018

2 Stop Dangerous Sanctuary Cities Act Vote #34 (S. 87)

NETWORK strongly opposed this bill which threatened the trust between local law enforcement and immigrant communities and would make our communities less safe. This anti-immigrant legislation would perpetuate unconstitutional immigration detention practices and target jurisdictions across the country by denying them federal dollars for housing, community development, and economic development assistance.

Failed 45-54, February 15, 2018

3 Secure and Succeed Act Vote #36 (S. 2192)

NETWORK strongly opposed this bill because it would cut entire categories of family visas that have long-been provided each year to help families reunite with their siblings, children, and parents. The bill also provided $25 billion dollars to increase internal enforcement, deportation, and border enforcement mechanisms.

Failed 39-60, February 15, 2018

4 Spending Cuts to Expired and Unnecessary Programs Act — Vote #134 (H.R. 3)

NETWORK strongly opposed this bill, which would have rescinded $7 billion in funding for the Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP). If enacted, this would have threatened the health and wellbeing of nine million children who utilize the program every year.

Failed 48-50, June 20, 2018

Senate Changes during this Session

- Al Franken (D-MN), Resigned January 2, 2018
- Tina Smith (D-MN), Appointed January 3, 2018
- Thad Cochran (R-MS), Resigned April 1, 2018
- Cindy Hyde-Smith (R-MS), Appointed April 3, 2018
- John McCain (R-AZ), Passed away on August 25, 2018
- Jon Kyl (R-AZ), Appointed September 4, 2018

5 Kennedy Amendment to the Farm Bill Vote #141 (S.Amdt. 3383 to H.R. 2)

NETWORK strongly opposed this amendment to the bipartisan Farm Bill. This amendment would have expanded burdensome work requirements for Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) recipients by drastically altering the nutrition title of the Senate Farm Bill to mirror the controversial SNAP changes proposed in the House Farm Bill.

Failed 30-68, June 28, 2018

6 Judge Kavanaugh Supreme Court Confirmation Vote #223

While NETWORK does not always weigh in on judicial nominations, we strongly opposed the confirmation of Judge Brett Kavanaugh as a Supreme Court Justice because of his consistent judicial record of deciding against the interests of the common good on issues such as healthcare, immigration, labor rights, voting rights, and the death penalty. His testimony also raised profound concerns regarding his treatment of women and his fitness for office.

Confirmed 50-48, October 6, 2018

7 Farm Bill (Agriculture and Nutrition Act) Vote #259 (H.R. 2)

NETWORK strongly supported this conferenced version of the Senate's Farm Bill which incorporated measures to improve the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program and maintain support for food-insecure households. This final version of H.R. 2 was an example of bipartisan legislation that protected and strengthened SNAP.

Passed 87-13, December 11, 2018

Signed into law December 20, 2018

8 FIRST STEP Act Vote #271 (S.756)

While NETWORK would have preferred more robust reforms, this bipartisan bill offers modest changes that improve the federal Criminal Justice system. We cautiously supported its passage based on restorative justice provisions like reformed sentencing guidelines and additional resources for rehabilitative training and recidivism reduction programming.

Passed 87-12, December 18, 2018

Signed into law December 21, 2018

HOUSE VOTES

1 Spending Cuts to Expired and Unnecessary Programs Act — Vote #243 (H.R. 3)

NETWORK strongly opposed this bill, which would have rescinded $7 billion in funding for the Children’s Health Insurance Program (CHIP). If enacted, this would have threatened the health and wellbeing of nine million children who utilize the program every year.

Passed 210-206, June 7, 2018

2 Securing America’s Future Act Vote #282 (H.R. 4760)

NETWORK strongly opposed this bill because it failed to give a pathway to citizenship for DACA recipients, while cutting entire categories of family visas that have long-been provided each year to help families reunite with their siblings, children, and parents. It also made being undocumented a crime under the law and removed protections for children under the Trafficking Victim Protection Reauthorization Act of 2008 and vital asylum protection.

Failed 193-231, June 21, 2018

3 Farm Bill (House Version) Vote #284 (H.R. 2)

NETWORK strongly opposed this partisan House version of the Farm Bill due to provisions that would mandate stricter work requirements for millions of Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) recipients. The Congressional Budget Office estimated that approximately 400,000 households currently receiving benefits would lose their nutrition assistance.

Passed 213-211, June 21, 2018

4 Farm Bill (Conference Version) Vote #434 (H.R. 2)

In December, the House voted again on a conferenced version of H.R. 2. NETWORK supported this version because it included the Senate Farm Bill’s more reasonable, bipartisan nutrition policies. We chose to include this vote as well as the previous one to show the marked contrast between the first partisan bill which barely passed with 213 votes and this bipartisan version, which passed with over 100 additional votes and was quickly signed into law.

Passed 369-47, December 12, 2018

Signed into law December 20, 2018

5 Border Security and Immigration Reform Act Vote #297 (H.R. 6136)

NETWORK opposed this bill because it failed to provide a pathway to citizenship for DACA recipients, instead creating a burdensome point system to become a citizen. The bill also allowed children protected under the Trafficking Victims Protection Act to be deported, removed vital protections in the asylum system, made cuts to the legal immigration system, and authorized the construction of border wall.

Failed 121-301, June 27, 2018

6 Protecting Family and Small Business Tax Cuts Act Vote #414 (H.R. 6760)

This “Tax 2.0” bill sought to indefinitely extend the major individual income and estate tax provisions from the harmful 2017 Tax Cuts and Jobs Act. The provisions are currently set to expire at the end of 2025, and this bill’s extension of these provisions would mean increased income inequality and deficit growth from our nation’s tax policies.

Passed 220-191, September 28, 2018

7 FIRST STEP Act Vote #448 (S.756)

While NETWORK would have preferred more robust reforms, this bipartisan bill offers modest changes that improve the federal Criminal Justice system. We cautiously supported its passage based on restorative justice provisions like reformed sentencing guidelines and additional resources for rehabilitative training and recidivism reduction programming.

Passed 358-36, December 20, 2018

Signed into law December 21, 2018

Justice-Seekers, Use Your IRA Distributions to Work for Justice!

Did you know? You can use your IRA distributions for justice!

Are you 70½ years of age or older and have an IRA account? Or did you inherit an IRA that you must withdraw from?

If so, you may be able to make a charitable gift with your required distributions.

The Charitable Rollover allows you to make charitable contributions directly from your IRA to charitable organizations like NETWORK Advocates, without claiming increased income for federal taxes. It also allows your gift to count toward your Required Minimum Distribution. A rollover can't be counted as a charitable gift for income tax purposes, but it does fulfill your obligation to withdraw funds from your IRA.

If you have the ability to comfortably designate some of your Required Minimum Distribution to NETWORK Advocates' mission of justice and peace, your gift will be put to work right away. Your gift will equip activists with the resources and platforms needed to meet the challenges ahead.

THANK YOU FOR A SUCCESSFUL JOURNEY!

Nuns on the Bus set out to tell the truth about the 2017 Republican Tax Law and hold elected officials accountable for their votes. After the Nuns on the Bus lobbied members of Congress in 13 House districts, voters in 10 of those districts replaced their representatives who had voted for the Republican Tax Law.

We loved getting to meet new people, visit old friends, and share our journey with you online. Thank you for being a part of our trip!
